International Development»

Congress is dedicated to the

300th anniversary of the founder of Moscow University

Mikhail Vasilyevich Lomonosov;

50th anniversary of the First Manned Space Flight

Lomonosov Moscow State University

18-22 May, 2011

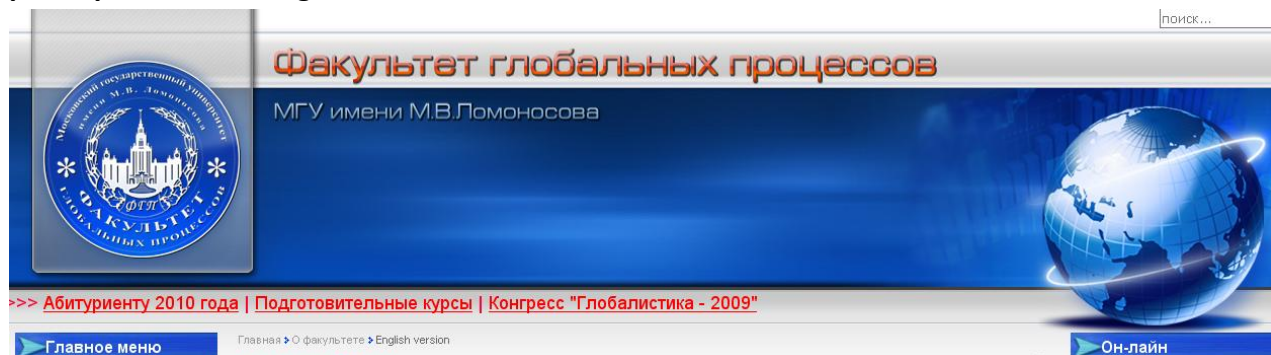

The 1st International Scientific Congress “Globalistics – 2009: Ways out of the Global Crisis and Models of a New World Order” took place in May, 2009 during the time of the financial crisis of 2007-2009 and the following global recession .These events have served once more to highlight the extent to which countries and regions in the world have become strongly interdependent.

Impressive efficiency gains in economic integration and in development of global transportation network and world trade, rapid advances in information and communication technology have facilitated an unprecedented level of global interwovenness and interdependence. Emerging global trends that reflect the most profound and unexplored processes are coming to the fore.

Main goals of the Congress: analysis, generalization and the comparative measurement of the global processes based on the juxtaposition of the points of view of the leading scientists, who are forming the international experts network devoted to the analysis of global socio-natural trends.

Interdisciplinarity of Global Studies specifies the respective scale and form of the organization of the Congress. This enables the participants to concentrate on the study of recent groundbreaking trends in the field of the global processes and problems.

We invite the researchers in Economics, Political and Social Studies, Philosophy, Geography, Ecology, Applied Mathematics, Management and other spheres of scientific knowledge to participate in the Congress.

Faculty of Global Processes

Recognizing the importance of a clear understanding of structure, system and dynamics of the world, evolving at an ever-increasing interdependence, the Faculty of Global Processes was established at Lomonosov Moscow State University in 2005.

As part of its interdisciplinary research The Faculty focuses on studying the key processes in the field of Politics, Economics, Philosophy, Sociology, Business, Geography, Ecology and other fields that contribute to the formation of the global dynamics.

Since its foundation the Faculty has developed rapidly and has become a leading academic Center for the Study of Global Processes in the Russian Federation. the Faculty contributes publications to the magazines "The Age of Globalization" (Russian- language edition) and «Journal of Globalization Studies» (English- language Edition). In 2011 the Faculty of global processes of Lomonosov Moscow State University launches a series of "Global Studies and Geopolitics" in the scientific journal "Moscow University Bulletin "

The Faculty develops a network of international cooperation in research and teaching. Globalistics in its modern state, having accumulated enormous scientific data during its 40-year existence, requires to be systematized and catalogued. A considerable part of the work has already been done by an international group of experts who have created two truly fundamental sources of reference materials: Encyclopedia «Globalistics» and Encyclopedic Dictionary of Globalistics.

The next step consists in an attempt to collect and categorize data on specialized scientific publications on Globalistics and their authors, periodicals on the issue, as well as information on the organizations dealing with the problems of Globalistics. Therefore the Russian Philosophic Society, the Scientific Corporation «Intellectual Systems» and the Faculty of Global Processes of the Lomonosov Moscow State University have set up the project "WHO IS WHO AND WHAT IS WHAT IN GLOBALISTICS" » aimed at creating the most comprehensive database on scientists who have contributed to the development of Globalistics, specialists in this area; on the organisations, institutions, centres, faculties and departments specifically focused on global processes and problems; on periodicals dealing with global issues; on conferences, congresses, forums worldwide.

At the moment the Project is under active development, data is being gathered and catalogued for subsequent publication in the encyclopedia, as well as in the Internet. The Project is open for new participants, and anyone willing to take active part in it is free to register at www.globalistics.org

Faculty of Global Processes is the main venue of the International Global Studies Association (IGRA) - a scientific association open to scientists from all over the world which are interested in Globalistics. President of the association is Academician Viktor A. Sadovnichy, the Rector of Lomonosov Moscow State University, Vice-President of Russian Academy of Science. Among its founders –Professor Roland Robertson, one of the founders of the Study of Globalization, University of Aberdeen, Scotland; Igor I. On the Congress Sessions and Contributed Papers

1. On the Sessions and Discussion

Each of the twelve topical congress sessions opens with an invited presentation by a distinguished international scholar, followed by four contributed papers and a plenary discussion. Five main panel discussions will focus on interdisciplinary problems. Moderators in a short briefing will announce issues to be discussed. To enter the panel discussion one should announce one's intention to participate during the registration.

As well as reports prepared by reputable scholars and scientists, each session will include presentations given by eminent research students and postgraduates. The Congress Organizing Committee regards it a priority to encourage young and upcoming academics in the field of global studies. Participating in "Globalistics-2011" offers such "apprentice scientists" a unique opportunity to meet distinguished scholars in the field from all over the world. It introduces them to a broad range of perspectives in state-of-the-art research in the field of Global Studies.

2. On the contributed papers.

The emphasis of contributed papers may be on ground-breaking and insightful empirical research and policy studies, but also on data issues or on innovative methodological topics. In all conference papers and presentations, attention to policy relevance is strongly encouraged. Papers may be global in perspective. But papers exploring more local issues set in a context of globalization are equally welcome. The Organizing Committee hopes that some of the contributed papers will deal with the position and future of Russia in a globalizing world. There may well be researchers, policy analysts and policy makers involved in subjects which, in their view, are highly relevant to the study of globalization or to policy approaches to globalization, but who cannot find a good match among the Congress session topics. They are nevertheless encouraged to propose a paper. The Organizing Committee welcomes such initiatives, and it will seriously consider these proposals. And it may, for example, decide to organize one or more additional parallel sessions to accommodate such topics. Students aiming at presenting in sessions may be nominated by a member of their faculty, but they may also apply direct without such nomination.

3. Practical Guidelines for Contributed Papers.

- Prospective authors must submit a 700-word abstract by 15 March 2011.
- Notifications of acceptance will be sent by 1 April 2011.

- The full paper must be unpublished and must not exceed 700 words. It must be submitted not later than 31 March 2011. Because of the preparation required for the translators, unfortunately this deadline cannot be extended. Late submission of the full paper may therefore involve the designation by the Organizing Committee of a substitute author.
- By 30 April, authors must submit a slide presentation supporting their session presentation. This is the deadline required by the conference translators. Slide presentations must not exceed 10 slides (pages). Slide dimensions must be 4x3. A character size suitably large for auditorium presentation must be used.
- Abstract and full papers must be submitted by e-mail as editable OpenOffice.org .odt or Microsoft .doc files. Slide presentations, similarly, must be submitted by e-mail in editable .odp or .ppt format.
- To facilitate effective and proper translation, in the weeks prior to the conference, authors must be prepared to answer any e-mailed questions and requests for clarification put by the translators
- Selected Congress papers will be eligible for publication in a special issue of the bi-annual Journal of Globalization Studies, published under the auspices of the Faculty of Global Processes of Lomonosov Moscow State University.

The Organizing Committee has the right to reject materials of low scientific significance

4. Conference Working Languages

The official working languages of the Congress will be Russian and English.

Translation services will be provided if necessary. Authors wishing to present in another language must notify the Organizing Committee prior to submitting an abstract. Every effort will be made to accommodate such other languages, but this cannot be guaranteed.

5. Informal networking

In addition to the formal day-time Congress sessions, and in line with the well-established tradition, the Organizing Committee will again organize a comprehensive evening social programme.

Registration Forms and Fees

1) Congress Registration Forms

All prospective Globalistics-2011 Congress participants, both presenters of papers and other attendees, must complete a short Congress registration form. Prospective Congress participants who do not yet have a copy of the registration form may obtain one by writing an e-mail message to the Organizing Committee. Please see below for the Congress e-mail address.

In order to be able to meet the deadline for the visa application procedure (see below), completed registration forms must be received by the Organizing Committee not later than 15 March 2011.

2) Congress Registration Fees

Registration fees for the participants at “Globalistics-2011” are waived.

Accommodation

Lomonosov Moscow State University can offer low-cost on-campus hostel accommodation for Congress participants. This on-campus accommodation is characterized by relatively modest and traditional academic levels of comfort and service.

For participants preferring more comfort, the Organizing Committee can assist in finding hotel accommodation in Moscow.
